Buddhist chaplaincy is spiritual care practice that is “Buddhadharma-based,” i.e., based on the teachings of the historical Buddha and the three main Buddhist traditions: Theravāda, East Asian, and Tibetan Buddhism. Different approaches to Buddhist and Interreligious chaplaincy and spiritual care will be presented and examined in an open and critical discussion. Speakers from the Netherlands, Norway, Italy, and the United States report on their concepts and experiences with professional training in Buddhist care in cooperation with universities and discuss open questions and perspectives of Buddhist care in heterogeneous and religiously plural contexts.

Thu 8 and Fri 9 Dec 2022, 9:00 – 18:00 (end Fri 17:30)

Venue: St. Ansgar-Haus, Bildungs- und Gästehaus des Erzbistums Hamburg, Schmilinskystr. 78, 20099 Hamburg http://www.ansgarhaus-hamburg.de/

Participation fee daily visitors: 58 Euro for both days (including lunch and hot and cold drinks during the breaks)
For out-of-town guests plus accommodation: single room with breakfast 86,90 Euro (vegan 88,90 Euro), double/twin bed room 71,50 Euro (vegan 73,50 Euro) per person and per day.

For further information and registration: carola.roloff@uni-hamburg.de